Lincolnshire Fire and Rescue Service

Waddington Training Facility, Bracebridge Heath, Lincoln

The IBTPHEM National Pre-hospital Emergency Medicine Introductory Course is an annual seven-day residential course designed specifically for those commencing careers in Pre-hospital Emergency Medicine (PHEM).

The course focuses on:

- Personal, team and patient safety
- Human factors and Team Resource Management
- Principles of pre-hospital emergency medical care
- Developing and maintaining psychosocial resilience
- The PHEM sub-specialty curriculum

The course is delivered by a multi-professional faculty of experienced PHEM practitioners supported by administrators and guest speakers. The course is residential and all-inclusive with accommodation and meals provided at the DoubleTree by Hilton Hotel, Lincoln. The course provides:

- A supportive learning environment and culture
- Over 10 hours of interactive case-based discussions
- Over 30 hours of scenario based teaching
- Part-task and full-immersion simulator based training in different PHEM environments
- Medical and Surgical Skills workshops
- Major incident training
- Work-place based assessments for PHEM sub-specialty trainees

Cost: £2500 per person

The course is open to people working in, or interested in a career in PHEM who are:

- Fully registered doctors of ST4 or above (including Consultants, SAS Doctors and GPs)
